

New library opening in Arlanza Neighborhood

The Arlanza Neighborhood is less than two months away from welcoming a new library.

The Arlanza Library, located at 8267 Philbin Avenue, is moving towards completion with a grand opening scheduled for November 13. This new 10,000-square-foot library will feature a dedicated child's area, adult reading area and community meeting room as well as more than 70 public access computers for adults, teens and children.

This library will be a place where residents can come to leisurely read books, do research or access computers. In addition to the new space, the library will offer a Friends of the Library used book sale corner, children and teen programs, and computer classes for all ages.

The opening of the Arlanza Library will provide the community another location to access databases, Homework Online services and approximately 600,000 items within the Riverside Public Library collection including books, music CDs, movies and audio materials. All the items can be requested at any library location in the City.

Riverside Public Library offers residents the Inland Empire's largest collection of books and other library materials, as well as 235 public access computers. With an annual circulation of 1.23 million, it's a major provider of information services and cultural programs.
